

WMD Read-Ahead Material

The potential threat of an agriculture-related WMD incident is very real. The following reading material will help you to understand what Weapons of Mass Destruction (WMD) is about and why agriculture emergency responders need to know how to recognize, react, and recover from a WMD incident.

To get started, click on the link at the bottom of this page. This will take you to the Center for Domestic Preparedness Read-Ahead web page, which is illustrated below.

The links you see under Agriculture Emergency Response Training (AgERT) will take you to individual chapters of the WMD Awareness Level Training Manual. This manual was produced as part of a stand-alone course by the CDP. You are strongly encouraged to read the manual before you attend the AgERT course.

<http://cdp.dhs.gov/readahead.html>